Information about the study

- You are being asked to take part in a research study. You have been selected for this interview because you were involved in the design or implementation of the digital training, or because you would be involved in any future scaling of this approach in Nigeria.
- The purpose of this research is to better understand what key stakeholders think about the feasibility, implementation barriers and facilitators, and scalability of a digital training course for the hormonal IUD method in Nigeria.
- You will be asked about your interest in participating in a key informant interview to help us to better understand your experiences with the digital training. Specifically, we would like to hear your thoughts on whether this digital approach was feasible, whether it is scalable, and what the barriers/facilitators for implementation might be. You are free to choose to participate or not—the decision is up to you. Choosing not to participate in the research will not have any impact on your employment or future opportunities.
- If you decide to participate, we will invite you to complete one online or telephone-based in-depth interview with a member of our research team. The interview will take no more than 45 minutes of your time and will be conducted at a day/time that is convenient for you. The interview will be audio-recorded – so you will need to agree to be recorded to participate in this research. The audio file will be deleted after the interview has been transcribed and translated. The interview will also be kept anonymous – meaning your name or other information that can identify you will not be linked to your responses.

Possible risks

- If you decide to participate, the interview will take some of your time, but otherwise should not be associated with any physical, social or psychological risks. There is a risk that your participation in this study or what you have said could be discovered by others. To protect your privacy, we will not share your involvement in the study with anyone (including your employer), and we will not include your name or other identifying information with anything we share.

Possible benefits

- There will be no direct benefit to you for participating in this study. However, the information we gather will be used to improve the digital curriculum on the hormonal IUD for family planning providers in Nigeria. Given restrictions due to the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic, we are hopeful this digital training approach will allow providers to continue to be trained while complying with restrictions on large gatherings. The continued training of providers will ultimately help to ensure and expand contraceptive method choice for your clients. We hope to use the findings of this study to further revise the training, potentially adding additional Family Planning methods or tailoring it to other cadres of healthcare providers.

Voluntary participation

- You are free to decide if you want to be in this research. You do not have to answer any questions you do not want to answer, and you can stop the interview at any time.
- If you agree to participate and then you change your mind, you may end your participation without penalty at any time. Your decision to participate or anything you tell me will not affect your ability to be involved in the project or your employment.

Confidentiality

- We will protect information about you and your taking part in this research to the best of our ability. We will not share any information that could be linked back to you personally with anybody outside of our research team. We will store all data on password-protected electronic devices. We will not use your name, or the name of your organization, in any reports. All identifying information will be removed before the data is shared.
- We may include direct quotations from you in our report, but we will not identify who provided the information or include any information that could directly or indirectly be used to identify you.
- Any information we collect which clearly identifies you (for example, your name or phone number) will be kept confidential to the best of our ability. This information will only be collected for the purposes of scheduling an interview with you and will be destroyed once the interview has been completed.
- Information you provide that does not directly identify you may be shared with others and could be used by others without additional informed consent from you.

Compensation

- No compensation will be provided.
